

The Bad Word

This word I hate, the word I can not say

I have been trained, to stay away

You may say it, that you say

From this word, I can not say

You have trained me well

To stay away from this word, I can not say

I despise this word, I really do

But for you it is OK?

To say between each others it is OK

But for me I can not say

In no context it is OK,

At least not for me to say

You say this word freely, between each other

Freedom of speech, does not explain

The hate I have for this word

I can not say

To put the word in print

is not something I wish to do

I hate this word so much

I can not explain to you

The word that offends you

So much

But only if said by someone

Other than you.

Why this double standard?

You do not believe me when I say,

I hate this word,

The one that is OK for you to say.

You call each other this word

Why, I can not say

It is not Ok to say

Not anytime, not this day.
